In an interview with a correspondent Dr. Schmidt said: "I am the first man to prove that cancer can be artificially produced on animals." Dr. Schmidt declared a remedy for cancer was possible. Since he discovered the bacillus Dr. Schmidt has been experimenting with the remedy, which has given good results, but apparently the cure is only possible when the case is but little advanced.

COOPER EVADES ISSUE IN HIS STATEMENT AS TO POSTOFFICE DEAL

ADMITS THAT AFFIDAVITS WERE SENT HIM IN WINTER.

KULL IS STILL IN CHARGE

Despite This Fact Fred Kull is His Campaign Manager for Walworth County.

Congressman H. A. Cooper has issued a formal statement as regards the charges made that the Lake Geneva postoffice was offered for sale. He does not deny the facts.

First, that Fred Kull endeavored to sell the Lake Geneva postoffice for $2,400.

Second, that this fact was brought to his attention by letters and affidavits before any appointment was made.

Third, that the man who was finally appointed was endorsed by Mr. Kull who now practically manages the postoffice.

Fourth, that Kull is his present campaign manager in Walworth county.

Awkward Position.
Mr. Cooper's explanation puts him in an awkward position, worse if possible than he was before. He can not expect the people to overlook the startling facts that Mr. Kull's man is now postmaster and that Mr. Kull is Mr. Cooper's campaign manager in Walworth county.

Last evening Mr. Cooper stopped at the Myers hotel. He was quartered in Parlor C and for several hours was very busy formulating his statement which was given to the press this morning. Postmaster Charles Valentine, Attorney Edwin T. Carpenter and District Attorney John Fisher and others were in close conference with him.

Undue Activity.
Undue activity of federal officeholders in behalf of Mr. Cooper has been seen in Janesville as well as other portions of the district. Mr. Cooper has called all his postmasters and others dependent upon his election into play and they have been most active in circulating his pictures and handbills. Federal interference in state elections is against the tenets of the government and is one of the great benefits that was to be derived from the passage of the primary law.

Cooper's Statement.
The following is a copy of Cooper's statement regarding the Lake Geneva postoffice deal. It should be read carefully and analyzed and the facts stated at the opening of this article will be clearly seen.

"The circular relating to the postoffice appointment at Lake Geneva, Wis., and now being distributed through the first congressional district is an infamous, lying attempt in the closing hours of the primary campaign, to involve me in an old scandal with which my name was never before associated. In March last, upon my recommendation, Frank S. Moore was appointed postmaster at Lake Geneva. He is a hardware merchant, a man of unblemished character, an old resident of Lake Geneva and one of its most highly respected citizens. For several months before Mr. Moore's appointment the candidates for the position were R. D. Short, C. S. French and John Nethercut. French had been postmaster for eight years and sought reappointment.

Early in February last, a newspaper containing copies of affidavits of Mr. Short and his son, George, charging Frederick Kull of Lake Geneva with demanding $50 a month to secure Short's appointment, was sent to me at Washington. Mr. Kull promptly forwarded a vigorous denial. Affidavits and denial created a shameful public scandal, accompanied by great bitterness of feeling between Short and Kull and their respective partisans. Immediately after the dates sent me applications for the appointment. Among these was Frank S. Moore, whose name had not been previously mentioned. I think his endorsements were very strong, consisting chiefly of letters from a large part of the business men of Lake Geneva.

"The statement in the circular and in various newspaper reports that while the charges in this case were old, yet it was only very recently that affidavits had been made, is a deliberate, malignant falsehood. The circular itself shows that the affidavits of Short and his son were made, respectively, on the 9th and the 25th days of February last. The circular itself also shows that full details of the scandal were published in the Lake Geneva Herald of Feb. 16 last.

"The only new thing in the circular is the facsimile letter from Kull, and a careful reading of this shows that I knew nothing whatever about the scandal.

"The body of the circular also shows that the heading is a cunning, shameful attempt to mislead public opinion for political purposes.

WAGNER ANSWERS
COOPER'S LETTER

BRINGS PHILIPPINE ISLAND
QUESTION STRICTLY UP TO DATE.

GIVES FACTS FOR READER

Hard Nuts to be Answered by Men
Favoring the Measure in Congress
—Cooper is Wrong.

Richard Wagner, president of the Wisconsin Sugar company who buys lots of sugar beets in Rock county has made a formal answer to Mr. Cooper's article on the Philippine Islands and the growth of tobacco and sugar. His article which is reprinted below covers the matter fully and should be read by everyone interested in this campaign issue. The letter is as follows:

Congressman H. A. Cooper, the one member of the Wisconsin delegation who supported the Philippine tariff bill, attempts to justify his action by a lengthy communication published this morning, and which, no doubt, will be distributed through his district as a campaign document. Mr. Cooper's presentation is based entirely upon supposition, and viewed from the standpoint of the farmers grow- ing sugar beets, fails to offer one practical fact of plain business com- mon sense which should appeal to the farmers of Wisconsin who are inter- ested in the cultivation of the sugar beet or who grow tobacco.

Without discussing either the polit- ical or sentimental side, which seems to influence Congressman Cooper so largely, in his concern for the wel- fare of the hybrid orientals of the Philippines, the scheme to admit sug- ar and tobacco produced in the Is- lands at a greatly reduced rate of duty, at present, and finally to re- move the duty entirely, should com- mand the attention of every Wiscon- sin farmer interested in the produc- tion and sale of these two commodi- ties.

It appears strange, to say the least, that of the nine republican congress- men from the state, Congressman Cooper alone should join hands with the democrats in the house, and vote with them to destroy a reasonable protection in the way of a duty, to two of the important farming indus- tries of his state and district. The other members of the delegation are no less patriotic, no less well infor- med, and are as fully alert to what they deem to be the best interests of their constituents, as is Congressman Cooper. He alone of all the republi- can members from Wisconsin accept- ed theories instead of facts, upon which he based his activity and vote.

No one has argued that the presen- tation of sugar or of tobacco in the Philippines is of sufficient impor- tance so far as volume is concerned to influence prices in this country. It was, however, clearly demonstrated by the best sugar representatives in the hearings of the ways and means com- mittee of the house, that if the bill became a law it would, in fact, a ques- tion of time when the vast acreage of the islands capable of producing sugar, under the stimulus and development of the sugar trust, and its millions could be utilized, and the product would come into direct competition with the industry of the sugar beet growers. There was no dispute, in the arguments before the committee, about the cheapness of the land nor the cheapness of the labor in the Philippines engaged in the production of sugar. Other members of the Wis- consin delegation took the time to fully investigate this side of the propo- sition and were convinced that the Wisconsin farmer growing either sug- ar beets or tobacco on reasonably high-priced land, and who paid a de- cent price for the labor he must em- ploy, could not compete. The argu- ment was made, as Congressman Cooper reiterates it, that the entire pro- duct of the Philippines would not af- fect the price in America. No de- nial was attempted, however, as to the prices paid the cheap coolie la- bor used in the sugar plantations or in the crude mills which now produce the sugar.

It was contended and sufficient proof submitted to convince many of the congressmen coming from sugar beet and tobacco growing districts that if the bill proposed became a law it would destroy the sugar beet industry of the country, which now constitutes the only competition the sugar trust has to meet in this country. Representatives of the beet sug- ar interests appeared at the com- mittee meetings and cited facts and figures to show what it cost to man- ufacture sugar from beets, and demon- strated that this important industry, increasing its output of the cheap la- bor and lands of the Philippines was admitted upon the basis proposed in the bill.

Congressman Cooper speaks only of conditions as they are at the present time, with no thought seemingly, of what the result would be if the bill he voted for became a law. It is a known fact that the machinery now used in the Philippines to reduce the cane is crude and primitive, and through its use only a percentage of the total product is made marketable. If the bill, Congressman Cooper vot- ed for, and which is so clearly in the interest of the sugar trust, had pas- sed, without doubt the work of each- ing up the sugar lands of the Phil- ippines and the promotion and induc- tion of sugar mills equipped with modern machinery would now be well along. An enormously increased pro- duction would result, and the trust would be the beneficiary at the ex- pense of the sugar beet growers un- able to compete with the cheap la- bor and cheap land.

Congressman Cooper asserts that the Chinese exclusion laws are in force in the Philippines and claims that Chinese labor can not enter there. This is a part of this theoret- ical view, and if it were true, affords no explanation of the fact that the labor cost of those engaged on the sugar plantations is from 10 cents to 21 cents per day. This rate does not apply to the coolies brought in, but to the labor of the island generally, and it is the product of this labor and the product of this labor and Congressman Cooper, by his vote and advocacy, asks his Wisconsin con- stituents to compete with. Approximately 50,000 tons of sugar came into this country from the Philippines last year produced by this cheap labor. With the sugar lands in control of the trust, with new mills and modern machinery, and every appliance that great capital can supply, this output would be enormously increased.

While it should be, and no doubt will be, the policy of our government to treat the Philippines with greater fairness than they were treated by the Spanish, it should not be forgotten that Spain maintained a tariff 50 per cent higher than the present Dingley duty upon sugar imported into Spain. Mr. Cooper proposes to reduce this to such an extent, that in addition to the 25 per cent reduction now in opera- tion, there would be a further reduc- tion of 50 per cent. No objection was made by the beet sugar men to the favorable treatment accorded to the Philippines in giving them the 25 per cent reduction, but a most careful in- vestigation of the situation in the Is- lands as regards sugar production, has brought conviction that the proposed reduction would act to destroy the sugar beet industry now in process of developing in this country. The total area of the Philippines is twice as large as Cuba, Porto Rico and the Hawaiian Islands and the popula- tion is three times as great. No im- portation of labor is required for the cheap labor there, the density of population being seventy-five per square mile in the Philippines, while in this country it is twenty-five per square mile. The necessary elements, cheap land and cheap labor, are there. All that is needed is capital and energy and an incentive such as Mr. Cooper pro- poses to furnish all the sugar the United States can consume.

There is no argument in what Mr. Cooper has to say about ocean freight rates. The rate from Manila to the American ports is 20 cents per 100 pounds, no greater than is the rate from Milwaukee to Missouri river points. Notwithstanding the fa- vorable action of the ways and means committee of the house, it was clearly shown that it would not re- quire an area in the Philippines not larger than Congressman Cooper's en- tire district to produce all the sugar consumed in this country. If labor in this state could be secured at the prices prevailing in the islands, there is no reason whatever why Wisconsin farmers could not produce sugar as cheaply as it can be produced any- where in the world. The labor cost where in the world. The labor cost where in the world. The labor cost where in the world.

Congressman Cooper neglects to state that the American people, under the present law, are giving the Phil- ippines the benefit of every cent col- lected on articles imported from the islands into this country. Whatever duty is collected upon the sugar of tobacco imported is returned to them and in addition Congress made an annual appropriation of $2,000,000 to further assist them. As a matter of settlement, it may please Congress- man Cooper to believe that he has placed himself upon a higher and more patriotic pedestal from which he seeks to proclaim to the farmers of his district and state, that he alone among the Wisconsin colleagues was sagacious enough to vote to break down the sugar trust and its ramifi- cations by placing the sugar beet and tobacco growers on the basis of a product grown by 10-cent labor. He can call to his rescue the stand- ard advocates of the trusts, if he so de- sires, but there are certain facts he can not explain to the satisfaction of the men who are engaged in grow- ing sugar beets and tobacco, nor can he wave his hand and brush aside the conviction that a junketing trip does not always afford the best advantages to closely observe business condi- tions.

Forty Years Ago..

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, September 1, 1866.—The Rebel Spirit is not yet broken. Thursday at midnight a body of ruffians attacked and broke up a M. E. Camp-meeting of colored people, near Baltimore, using clubs and firearms with fatal effects, and burning the tents and clothing of the worshippers. The rebel battle cry was: "How about New Orleans?"

The Union-Pacific railroad has been completed and accepted by the commissioners, thirteen miles west of Fort Kearney.

Fresh Oysters.—Fritz, at his saloon on West Milwaukee street, received this afternoon by express a lot of fresh oysters. They are the first brought into this market this season. Those who want a taste of these delicious bivalves will know where to find them.

Rock River Survey.—Mr. H. Richardson, just returned from Fond du Lac, informs us that the survey of Rock river will commence today, and that Col. Worrel, after looking the ground over, expresses his opinion that the work is entirely practicable.

Coal and Lead.—It is rumored that in sinking the Artesian well at Madison they have found both coal and lead. If the report be true that coal has been found at a depth of 140 feet, our Madison neighbors will soon have cheap fuel. We hope it is true but we do not believe it.

Have We a River of Petroleum?—For several days past—say the New York papers—a curious phenomenon has been observed at Niagara Falls, and given rise to much comment. The air in the vicinity of the bridge leading to Goat Island has been impregnated and permeated with the odor of petroleum. Strollers through the island have returned with their clothes soiled, as it were, of kerosene. Some theorists maintain that a petroleum reservoir has been found, and that the falls are really impregnated with oil.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

The Midnight Flyer—As the Newsboy Saw it.

Manager Ed. Anderson is responsible for the following amusing send-off that was recently given "The Midnight Flyer" by one of the newsboys of a city where the company had played the night before. A group of newsboys were sitting in front of the theatre, and one of them gave his opinion of the play in the following manner:

"Say, kids, without any pumpin' it's de swelltest ting whatever come to dis town, an' dat ain't no mistake, Micky, so I can pull up Tanks, I guess I'll skeddoo."

"The Midnight Flyer" will be presented at the Myers Grand Monday, Sept. 3, matinee and evening.

Mr. Ben Fink, the preliminary agent of Chas. H. Yale's "Everlasting Devil's Auction," arrived in town today on business appertaining to the early announcements of the forthcoming engagement of that famous spectacle at the Myers Grand. Mr. Fink stated among other things that business at top noted as far as the "Devil's

RARE JUSTICE

Bunny Rabbit went one day last week to rob Mr. Coon's corncrib, and Mr. Coon caught him in the very act. "I'll march you off to jail, sir, and that's what I'll do with you!"

"Oh, don't march me off to jail! Anything but that! I know I ought to be killed. Throw me in the river, drown me, but don't march me off to jail!" pleaded Bunny Rabbit.

"All right," said old man Coon. "But if I throw you in the river you'll swim out. I know you. That's what you'll do."

"I was just coming to that," said Bunny Rabbit. "I was just going to ask you to tie my hands behind my back, so I couldn't swim a stroke. I'm afraid when I get in that cold water I might try to swim, and so I want you to tie me."

Old man Coon thought he never had seen such a repentant rabbit in all his days. There was something suspicious about it, but he tied Master Bunny Rabbit's hands and fast. Then Bunny Rabbit stood on the bank of the river and wept, and the tears dropped down his furry little cheeks, and his paws were tied so he couldn't wipe them away. Oh, he was a piteous spectacle!

"Go up to the top of that high hill," said he, "and run down just as fast as you can, and give me a good shower away out into the middle of the water, so I will drown quick."

Mr. Coon went up and ran, but Bunny Rabbit's hind feet were not tied, and when Mr. Coon got to him Bunny stepped to one side. Splash went old man Coon into the water.

"Oh, save me! Save me, Brother Bunny Rabbit!" he cried, for Mr. Coon, who could not swim, was helpless with fear.—Atlanta Constitution.

Janesville young people who have attended the Wisconsin university during the last four years will be interested in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Lucia Emon of Madison to Hantaro Ganda of Kobe, Japan. The ceremony was performed in Rockford this week by Rev. Frank D. Sheets of the Methodist Episcopal church. Mr. Ganda came to America to pursue a course of study at the University of Wisconsin, and it was there the romance, that ended in the nuptials, commenced. Mr. Ganda remained in America to learn the customs of the country and when these have been acquired he will take his bride to the far east. He is engaged in the mercantile business in Milwaukee and that city will be their home for the present. Mr. Ganda is bright and appears to be mastering American ideas rapidly. His bride was an attractive young woman and was greatly attached to her Oriental lover. The groom is a Christian and a member of the Congregational church while his bride is a Methodist. The affair had the tinge of an elopement as it is understood relatives of the bride opposed her marriage to the Jap.

SANTIAGO SCENE OF NEW UPRISING

WORST CALAMITY THAT COULD BEFALL PALMA.

EASTERN CUBA AFLAME

Government Hides Facts, But Press
Reports Confirm Story That Hitherto Peaceful Province Has Taken Up Arms.

Havana, Sept. 1.—The situation is far darker today than at any previous time since the insurrection broke out. News of an uprising in Santiago province, while not yet published here, is spreading about the city and causing the gravest concern.

When Mr. Sleeper, the American charge d'affaires, was told the contents of the Santiago dispatch, he endeavored to verify it through the state department, but was told it was absolutely untrue. Subsequently the dispatch was verified from private and newspaper sources. The extent of the rising in Santiago is not known; but it is the opinion here that the worst calamity of all to the Palma government would be an insurrection in eastern Cuba.

The press was informed by two reliable eyewitnesses that Cardenas, which hitherto has been considered a perfectly peaceful city was the scene Thursday of desultory fighting between police and rural guards on the one side and roving insurgents on the other.

One Peaceful Province.
The only province remaining perfectly peaceful is Puerto Principe. Americans having great cattle interests there are apprehensive lest it, too, become the field of insurrectionary operations.

The press correspondent at Cienfuegos telegraphed that there are 3,000 armed insurgents in that vicinity and that all the small towns in Santa Clara province are controlled by insurgents, who attack and loot trains and seize the property of foreigners as well as Cubans.

Trinidad is surrounded by insurgents, and the government appears powerless to protect the property of Americans and other foreigners. Railway trains are held up at will and passengers searched. The Cuban Central railway has declined to assume responsibility for the safety of passengers or freight.

The government continues to make fine headway wherever there is open fighting.

Guerra Evades Troops.

The troops in the western portion of Pinar del Rio province have not yet come up with Pino Guerra, and according to the press correspondent with the troops, there is no present likelihood of their doing so, as the troops might march for ten years and all the while Guerra would still be just ahead of them in the hills. There are thousands of mountain trails with which the insurgents are familiar and which lead in all directions. If Guerra cared to harass the government troops, he could be killed off by sharpshooters. The government has no cavalry in Pinar del Rio, and the only real soldiers are the artillerymen, but as they are afoot they cannot cope with the well-mounted veterans on the insurgent side. Guerra does not want to fight. His scouts can always be seen at a distance from the government line of march. The correspondents report more looting by Guerra's men.

With a view to calming public feeling a dispatch from the governor of Santa Clara province was given out at the palace, but its statements are not borne out by any other testimony. Americans who come to the legation to ask for the protection of their property are answered by an immediate call upon the government of Cuba, which promises to do the best it can for them. Charge D'affaires Sleeper advises all such callers to file their complaints in the local courts and forward copies of the papers to the legation.

There are many rumors in circulation as to what may happen September 15 unless a new election is granted.

Sweeps Country Districts.

To add to the general apprehension, the American Protestant missionaries of Havana, who are in general charge of the field, say that reports from missionaries outside of Havana are practically unanimous in stating that the insurrection is sweeping all the country districts in the western half of the island and that they are unable to continue their work or ride over the routes in their several districts.

The increasing gravity of the situation has revived discussion of the possibility of intervention by the United States. A discussion, the semi-official organ of the administration, in an editorial, calls upon Cubans to lay down their arms and save the republic from the danger of intervention. The article appeals to the patriotism of the people, depicting the results of intervention as follows:

"Permanent intervention would be worse than death. It would be preferable if the Caribbean should engulf the Pearl of the Antilles."

RECEIVER PROBING FAILURE

Seeks to Ascertain if Other Officers
Knew of Lax Methods.

Philadelphia, Sept. 1.—Receiver George H. Earle, Jr., of the Real Estate Trust company, is directing his efforts towards ascertaining if other officials or employees of the bank had guilty knowledge of President Hipple's transactions. He expresses surprise that William F. North, treasurer of the company, and Horace Hill auditor, did not acquaint the directors with the condition of affairs if they were aware of the entanglements.

Before any of the loans were paid to Segal or other borrowers it was Treasurer North's duty to approve them, and Auditor Hill, Mr. Earle points out, in examining the accounts must have observed the excessive amounts paid to one man. The fact remains, however, that no information was given by either man to the directors of the large loans made to Segal.

A free kindergarten supported by him and numerous public charities exist at Asheville as a result of his generosity.

Mr. Pack's son, Charles L. Pack, is a well known business man of Cleveland.

SHIPPERS APPEAL TO COMMISSION

ENDEAVOR TO SECURE RELIEF
UNDER NEW LAW.

CATTLE MEN COMPLAIN

Allege Transfer Rate at Chicago Is Excessive, and Are Upheld by Board, Which Is Reversed
by Court.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—Shippers of the country are taking advantage of the new railroad freight rate law to seek relief from the Interstate Commerce commission for what they regard as unreasonable or unjust conditions imposed upon them by the railroad companies. Petitions are being received by the commission from shippers involving not only questions that are raised directly by the recently enacted law, but including some old questions into which an endeavor is being made to breathe a new life.

A series of petitions was filed with the commission Friday presenting a question which has been at various times, before the commission for many years and on which the commission has rendered at least four decisions.

Allege Charge Is Excessive.

The Texas Cattle Raisers' association, of Texas, entered a complaint against the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway and many other railroad corporations because of a charge of $2 a car on live stock made by the terminal railroad at Chicago. The complainant maintains that the charge is excessive and unreasonable and that it ought to be included in the through rate on car loads of live stock from Texas to Chicago. Intervening in this petition as complainants are the American National Live Stock association and the Corn Belt Meat association.

Decides for Shippers.

The interstate commerce commission decided several years ago that the charge of $2 a car, as a transfer or terminal rate in Chicago, was excessive. It fixed $1 a car as the proper tariff. The case was taken to the supreme court of the United States and the order of the commission, fixing $1 a car as the rate of terminal charge in Chicago, was overthrown on the ground of lack of authority.

Now, under the new law, the complainants again appear before the interstate commerce commission, and ask that the case be reopened and that the commission decide it in the light of the new act. The petitioners hope to have the case considered on the evidence taken heretofore. The testimony in the various cases is very voluminous.

Demand Joint Rate.

Dovetailing into this case is another complaint filed with the commission. It is that of the American Live Stock association and the Cattle Raisers' association of Texas, against the Texas and Pacific railway company and practically all of the other railroad lines west of the Mississippi river. It is urged by the complainants that the defendant company refuses to make a joint through rate on live stock, in carload lots, shipped from points in Texas to the market centers, such as Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha and Kansas City. In 1904 the defendant company cancelled its joint rates on live stock and now will accept such traffic only on the understanding that the stock is to be transhipped at junction points of the Texas and Pacific railway company with other lines. This, it is urged by the complainants, is unjust and unreasonable and subjects them to great inconvenience and damage. They ask, therefore, that the commission compel the railroad defendant in the action to quote to them a joint rate on live stock as formerly.

DUKE OF DEVIL-MAY-CARE

By Harris Dickson.

Copyright, 1905 by D. Appleton &amp; Co.

The old doctor took her into his big comforting arms. "She'll be well again pretty soon, and she wants you to enjoy Mardi Gras. Now, my child, don't be worried any more. Your mother is doing nicely, and in the very best place that she could possibly be. Mrs. Chaudron, this is an outrage. I never suspected the trick. That fellow Labouisse telephoned for our ambulance and brought Mrs. Ashton here about daylight Friday morning. He said nothing about her having relatives who might be uneasy. She supposed that the girls understood, and did not want them exposed to infection. Labouisse has been coming here twice a day, bringing flowers and messages which he said were from the young ladies. Mrs. Ashton knew that you had taken them to your house, and sent her thanks by Labouisse. She is quite contented, and has not the faintest idea how anxious the poor girl has been. Of course, I shall not tell her now. It would only fret her."

Anita tried conscientiously to listen as the surgeon reassured Alice, and denounced the subtlety which had caused such uneasiness. Yet her ears and eyes wandered persistently to the three men who gathered around Joe Balfour at the window. They deluged him with questions, all at once. Joe was still very angry, but he had worn the wire edge of his temper in those few remarks hurled at Jimmy Fitz.

"That dyed-mustache devil Labouisse started it. I'm going down there after awhile to tell him what I think of him."

"No, Mrs. Ashton will be well in a few days," Duke interrupted, dryly. "Leave him to her, she'll attend to his case better than you can."

"Yes, yes, that's so. It seems that Mrs. Ashton was taken ill during the night. The two girls slept soundly and did not hear her when she called. Arthemise came—she has nursed a good deal of smallpox—and they sent for a lantern-jawed doctor who lives across the street. He's some kind of an officer in the board of health. I'll have to pay my respects to him before I go home. He promptly diagnosed the case as smallpox. Labouisse was afraid that his guests would leave the house—you know he never makes a red cent except at Mardi Gras. So he bundled Mrs. Ashton off in a hurry, cleared everything out of that room, and re-furnished it before morning—even put new paper on the walls. Pretty slick trick, wasn't it?"

"I don't think he originally meant to carry the thing so far. But he kept getting deeper and deeper in the mad until he couldn't back out. He just had to go on."

"When the police came, Labouisse tipped them off the first thing. Of course, they were dead anxious to prevent a smallpox scare right in the face of Mardi Gras, with the town full of strangers. They took every precaution, and there was really no danger. These Carnival visitors would have lit out from here like a flock of partridges, and hit the ground running. So the police throw dust in our eyes, told us any old thing, sent us off on false trails—anything to keep us amused until after the Carnival. That's the truth of it. Then it got so hot for them that they couldn't tell."

"But what about that room?" Chaudron asked—"the door that had the broken knob? I can't get that straight in my head?"

"Labouisse cleaned it out; changed the furniture, pictures, everything; the girls got excited and confused; that helped Labouisse."

Duke was beginning to understand. It began to penetrate his head that he had been made a scapegoat, a mere dummy, for the purpose of diverting suspicion. It dawned upon him gradually, almost imperceptibly, that his arrest had no connection whatever with the affair at Vicksburg. And all the while he had had no other thought except that he was being held pending the arrival of extradition papers from Mississippi.

It took him quite a little while to fully comprehend. Great God, to what depths had he descended, he Noél Duke, to be picked up on the streets like a common vagrant, cast into prison, suspected of murdering a woman! And he dared not open his lips. Anita heard it, she saw him there; perhaps she suspected. She heard that insolent creature asking him questions. What could she think? What could Joe think? Oh, well, he could not help it now. "It doesn't matter anyway." He turned off with a shrug, and went to another window.

But Anita was watching him, he knew it, he felt it—watching him not so much with her eyes as with her very soul, tortured with doubts.

"The girl had long forgot her aunt lying ill in the red ward, forgot the people around her, forgot Alice whose head she was stroking—forgot everything except the one thing, the unforgettable thing. Why was Noél in that prison? Why did he not deny those fearful accusations? It was so unlike him to be silent, they talked to him as if he had been a thieving negro, and he said nothing."

Yes, yes, Noél had been wild, she knew that. But Anita came of wild stock herself. Brothers, fathers, grandfathers—as far back as there was any record of them—the Camerons had been hard-drinking, hard-fighting, hard-loving, hard-hating gentlemen. It was in her blood, and Anita understood. But when men impugned the Cameron honor, when men accused them of crime! Anita's full round eyes rested upon Noél Duke, and wondered. The subtle magnetism of her gaze drew the man unresistingly toward her; whether against his will or no she could not tell.

Step by step he crossed the room, touched her on the elbow, and she looking at him all the while seemed to rouse herself, and be conscious that he stood beside her.

"I must see you at once alone," he bent down and whispered. "May I come this afternoon?"

"At three," she answered, and gave the address on St. Charles avenue.

"Alone, people must not see me," he insisted.

Scullers Regain Lost Titles

Ex-Champion C. S. Titus
Is Now "Champ"
Once More.

And Ex-Champion G. Towns of Australia Also on Top Again.

With Frank Greer out of the recent annual sculling championship at Worcester, Mass., the event proved to be the tamest national regatta in years. Other races did not contribute to raise the meet above the ordinary either. Ex-Champion Constancio S. Titus of New Orleans and New York regained his sculling title, with practically no opposition, his opponent, Shephard, failing miserably at the tubs. Titus and Shephard are only ordinary scullers, and are little better on their season's work than a number of the entrants in the association's singles, a grade lower than the championship. The event lost its attractiveness by the absence of Greer, but amateur sport gained a point. Yet it is to be regretted that Greer did not start, because for the next six months we will have an interminable parading through the news columns of challenge stuff.

In his attempt to break into a race in which he had no business to compete, Frank Greer got fooled. Greer, usually level-headed and surrounded by some of the finest aquatic politicians that ever went to a national convention, must have been aware of the existence of rule 3, which prevented him from entering the championship race from a club of which he had not been a member three months, as required by the regulations. Greer was secretly told that he was to be barred, and, with the usual "diplomacy" of his friends, his entry was withdrawn. This left the regatta committee of the national association with nothing to do in the Greer case.

Australian oarsmen seem never to lose entirely their skill and knack in propelling a boat through the water.

Recently G. Towns, once the Australian champion, rowed against Stansbury, who had beaten him for the title. The result was a substantial victory for Towns, who is again champion. They were matched at single sculls, and the race took place at Sydney.

Courtney, Cornell's great rowing coach, resigning again because he does not like the graduate manager of aquatics, gives the impression that the master of rowing on Cayuga lake, New York, is a crabbed person who resents any attempt to interfere with him. He is not the only one of the rowing coaches about whom peculiar impressions prevail.

It is common report that Mike Murphy, trainer at the University of Pennsylvania, can tell a possible champion runner by seeing him walk across the campus. To Courtney is ascribed the same power as regards oarsmen. It is supposed to be able to spot them young. Furthermore, it is ordinarily said that Courtney rules his crews with an iron hand.

THE PARIS OF CHILE

Luxury of the Homes and the Parks of Santiago.

Santiago, which has been partly wrecked by the recent earthquake in South America, was the Paris of Chile. The citizens boasted that there was nothing in the gay European city which they could not secure in Santiago, says the Kansas City Star. They appear to have plenty of money, their tastes are refined and their habits tend toward the luxurious. The homes are beautiful, the women dress with extravagance, but with good taste, and the streets of the city are filled with carriages which compare favorably with those to be seen in Central park or upon the boulevards of Paris. The elite of Santiago have their brass butted, silk tiled, ramrodlike coachmen and footmen the same as do the proudest of the families of the better known countries.

Santiago thinks little of business. It is the capital and the seat of culture of the country. Yamparaiso, four hours distant by express trains, is the mart of Chile and the Santiago residents are content to allow their neighbors on the coast to attend to commerce while they uphold the social glory of the republic.

The Alameda is the principal thoroughfare of Santiago. It is 600 feet wide and extends the entire length of the city from Santa Lucia, the old fort, to the exposition grounds and botanical gardens, a distance of four miles. Down the center is a promenade, four rows of well kept poplar trees adorn the route and drives 100 feet wide are on each side.

This elongated park is dotted with statues of men famous in Chile. Many of these men were considered tyrants and were legally put to death or assassinated, but that makes no difference. The Chileans are glad to erect bronze or marble statues to their memories in the national park, no matter what they did to them when alive. It is somewhat astonishing to note that the names on a great many of these statues are Irish, such as O'Higgins, Pratt, Lynch and O'Brian. Nearly all of the Chilean leaders against Spain in the early part of the nineteenth century were Irish adventurers.

Peru furnishes many of the beautiful things to be seen in Santiago. They were not sold to the Chileans, nor were they presented to them. Peru and Chile have often been at war, and Peru has always lost. While these wars were in progress the Chileans had a way of sailing up to Callao and returning with great boatloads of plunder. Ornamental street lamps, carved stone benches, statuary, fountains, pianos, furniture, gold ornaments and everything which would tend to beautify the city and its homes were taken from the Peruvians and made use of in Santiago. Even iron fences and artistic tombstones were taken by the Chilean marauders. In the courtyard of the postoffice building are statues of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. They also came from Peru.

IN HONOR OF GARFIELD.

Monument to Be Erected Near Where He Died in Long Branch.

Long Branch, N. J., is about to honor the memory of President James A. Garfield, who died in the Franklin cottage on Ocean avenue on Sept. 19, 1881, by the erection of a monument.

Several sites have been talked over by the committee, among them being the triangle at the entrance to the Franklin cottage in Ocean avenue, says the New York Sun. The ground is owned by Charles T. Cook and the Washington Wilson estate. It is laid out as a park, being purchased by Mr. Cook and the late Mr. Wilson to prevent unsightly dwellings from being erected.

Old residents distinctly recall the bringing of President Garfield to Long Branch. The single track leading from the track of the New York and Long Branch railroad to the Franklin cottage, a distance of a half mile, was laid in a single night. The first ties were not on the ground until 7 p. m., and the next morning an engine was gliding over the tracks. Two thousand men were used to construct the track, which was not torn up until after the body of Garfield had passed over the road to Washington. Many of the cottagers have souvenirs from the track. Oliver Byron, the actor, built a hut from the logs. He named it the "Garfield hut."

Gammel Ost, a New Dish.

The newest dish is gammel ost, says the New York Press. It looks like cheese, only it is a rich, mahogany brown. It spreads easily, like butter, and has a delicious taste, new and strange, a little like fine Parmesan cheese, a little like anchovy paste.

"It will make a hit, won't it?" asked the importing grocer, as he showed it to the woman customer. "I discovered it in Norway. I am going to sell it at $1.75 a pound."

"Gammel ost," he went on, "is the chief dish of the Norwegian peasants. It is made of goats' milk, herbs and sugar, and it is ripened two or three years. Yellow at first, it turns brown with age."

"It is cheap in Norway, ridiculously cheap. I have imported a ton of it, and half a dozen of the best hotels have taken it up. Some day it will be as well known as caviar."

No Seeds in Apples.

Howard Garrett of Willstown township, Pa., claims to have solved the question of how to grow seedless apples and has two trees in his orchard which are bearing fruit and have been for several seasons. Just how it is done he will not explain, but he has the fruit. The apples have a core like any other variety, but there is not a seed in them. The flavor of the fruit is excellent.

"The mill gains by going and not by standing still," and stores prosper by being busy. That is why they offer you real inducements to drop in.

MAN GROWING MORE HUMANE

Treatment of Domestic Animals Is Proof of This.

"Electric fans in stables, horse shower baths and screens to keep out flies and mosquitoes are not uncommon nowadays in rich men's establishments," said a coachman. "The world is improving. Animals are now treated better than men used to be."

"Look at the drinking troughs for dogs and cats. You find them everywhere in our big cities during the hot season. And they are continually in service."

"Look at the straw bonnets that horses wear on the hot days. These bonnets, with a moist sponge inside them, are an immense protection against the heat. And look at the many costly and excellent kinds of fly-nets that are continually being patented."

"Then there are innumerable boarding houses in the country for dogs and cats and horses, where these animals may be sent in July and August if the hot weather runs them down."

"Yes, undoubtedly the world treats animals nowadays better than it treated men in the past."

QUALITIES THAT MAKE A LADY

Idea of Charles Dana Gibson Very Near the Truth.

"I dined with Charles Dana Gibson at Prince's restaurant in London during the season," said a Chicagoan.

"The lofty, spacious dining-room was filled with women in pale gowns, their hair uncovered and their arms and necks bare, and though these women were very fashionable, very aristocratic, they smoked cigarettes with their coffee as they watched the bioscope pictures that went on at one end of the big room and as they listened to the slugging that went on at the other."

"Amid all this feminine smoking we Americans began to discuss and to define the word 'lady.' Was it ladylike to smoke? we asked. Would a lady ever smoke? What was a lady?"

"I think Mr. Gibson's definition of a lady was the best that was given."

"A lady," he said, ignoring the smoke question altogether, "is a woman who always remembers others and never forgets herself."

Beautiful Roman Glassware.

There is no more beautiful glassware than that of the Romans, which, in many of the examples that still survive, is further beautified by its great age, the passage of centuries giving the surface of the vessels a bright, glossy, iridescent appearance, due to a decomposition of the outer surface.
